DETAILED ACTION

Drawings

The drawings are objected to because Figs. 1-4 (3/6/2006) are unclear. The images of the bones are not sufficiently distinct from the background (the examiner suggests outline drawings or submission of photos provided that the photos are clear when photocopied). The background of Fig. 3 obscures the date points. The shading is not distinct enough in figure 4. Corrected drawing sheets in compliance with 37 CFR 1.121(d) are required in reply to the Office action to avoid abandonment of the application. Any amended replacement drawing sheet should include all of the figures appearing on the immediate prior version of the sheet, even if only one figure is being amended. The figure or figure number of an amended drawing should not be labeled as "amended." If a drawing figure is to be canceled, the appropriate figure must be removed from the replacement sheet, and where necessary, the remaining figures must be renumbered and appropriate changes made to the brief description of the several views of the drawings for consistency. Additional replacement sheets may be necessary to show the renumbering of the remaining figures. Each drawing sheet submitted after the filing date of an application must be labeled in the top margin as either "Replacement Sheet" or "New Sheet" pursuant to 37 CFR 1.121(d). If the changes are not accepted by the examiner, the applicant will be notified and informed of any required corrective action in the next Office action. The objection to the drawings will not be held in abeyance.

Specification

The following guidelines illustrate the preferred layout for the specification of a utility application. These guidelines are suggested for the applicant's use.

Arrangement of the Specification

Art Unit: 1616

As provided in 37 CFR 1.77(b), the specification of a utility application should include the following sections in order. Each of the lettered items should appear in upper case, without underlining or bold type, as a section heading. If no text follows the section heading, the phrase "Not Applicable" should follow the section heading:

- (a) TITLE OF THE INVENTION.
- (b) CROSS-REFERENCE TO RELATED APPLICATIONS.
- (c) STATEMENT REGARDING FEDERALLY SPONSORED RESEARCH OR DEVELOPMENT.
- (d) THE NAMES OF THE PARTIES TO A JOINT RESEARCH AGREEMENT.
- (e) INCORPORATION-BY-REFERENCE OF MATERIAL SUBMITTED ON A COMPACT DISC.
- (f) BACKGROUND OF THE INVENTION.
 - (1) Field of the Invention.
 - (2) Description of Related Art including information disclosed under 37 CFR 1.97 and 1.98.
- (g) BRIEF SUMMARY OF THE INVENTION.
- (h) BRIEF DESCRIPTION OF THE SEVERAL VIEWS OF THE DRAWING(S).
- (i) DETAILED DESCRIPTION OF THE INVENTION.
- (j) CLAIM OR CLAIMS (commencing on a separate sheet).
- (k) ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE (commencing on a separate sheet).
- (l) SEQUENCE LISTING (See MPEP § 2424 and 37 CFR 1.821-1.825. A "Sequence Listing" is required on paper if the application discloses a nucleotide or amino acid sequence as defined in 37 CFR 1.821(a) and if the required "Sequence Listing" is not submitted as an electronic document on compact disc).

The Brief Description of the Drawings section needs to be move from the last page to area indicated above.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

- (a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 1-12 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over DE 202 07 569 U1 in view of Rosenberg et al. (US Pat. 6,579,544), Brown et al. (US Pat. 6,528,042), Fini et al., Ibsen et al., Dollwet et al. and Dodds et al..

DE 202 07 569 U1 discloses a dietary supplement containing lysine, proline, Vitamin C, copper, Vitamin B6 and Vitamins A, D3, B1, B2, niacin, folic acid, B12, biotin, pantothenic acid and calcium, phosphorous, magnesium, zinc, selenium, manganese, chromium, molybdenum, potassium, hesperidin, arginine, cystein, myo-inositol, carnitine, ubiquinone and bioflavonoids (See entire document).

Rosenberg et al. discloses that vitamin C is essential for the healing of bone fractures and that such fracture heal slowly in a patient deficient in vitamin C (Column 9, lines 32-54). It is disclosed that bioflavonoids promote vitamin C activity and include hesperidin which is found in the rinds of oranges and lemons and proanthocyanidins (Column 18, lines 11-26). It is disclosed that Coenzyme Q10 (ubiquinone) is found in every cell in the body and serves to prevent the cellular damage the results from normal metabolic processes and that deficiencies can occur during stress (Column 21, lines 47-68).

Brown et al. disclose that the combination of flavonoids or flavonoids and synergists, where the flavonoid can be hesperidin or pycnogenol and the synergist can also be a flavonoid, carnitine, lysine, arginine or tocopherols and that pycnogenol and hesperidin are used for ameliorating injuries (Column 19, lines 20-68, Column 20, Column 21, lines 1-4).

Fini et al. disclose that the rationale for using lysine in fractures is that lysine stimulates intestinal calcium absorption and renal conservation and cross-linking process of bone collagen (page 214). It is disclosed that L-proline acts as a substrate for collagen synthesis (page 214).

Ibsen et al. disclose that administered proline is used during bone healing (Pages 803, 804).

Dollwet et al. disclose that copper supplementation increases the rate of bone healing (Abstract).

Dodds et al. disclose that delayed fracture healing was observed in vitamin B6 deficient rate (Abstract).

DE 202 07 569 U1 discloses a dietary supplement containing lysine, proline, Vitamin C, copper, Vitamin B6 and Vitamins A, D3, B1, B2, niacin, folic acid, B12, biotin, pantothenic acid and calcium, phosphorous, magnesium, zinc, selenium, manganese, chromium, molybdenum, potassium, hesperidin, arginine, cystein, myo-inositol, carnitine, ubiquinone and bioflavonoids. The difference between DE 202 07 569 U1 and the claimed invention is that DE 202 07 569 U1 does not expressly disclose a method for facilitating bone healing in a mammal by administering the combination of lysine, proline, ascorbic acid, copper and vitamin B6. However, the prior art amply suggests the same as the prior art discloses the same as a nutritional supplement (DE 202 07 569 U1), that vitamin C is necessary for healing bone fractures (Rosenberg et al.), lysine increases calcium in the body and stimulates cross-linking of collagen (Fini et al.), proline is used as a substrate for collagen synthesis and in bone healing (Ibsen et al.; Fini et al.), that vitamin B6 deficiency leads to delayed fracture healing (Dodds et al.) and that pyconogenol is suitable for use in compositions for ameliorating injuries (Brown et al.). As such, one of ordinary skill in the art would have been motivated to administer the composition disclosed in DE 202 07 569 U1 wherein the flavonoids include pyconogenol with the expectation that the composition would be effective in increasing the rate of bone healing.

Art Unit: 1616

Therefore, the claimed invention, as a whole, would have been prima facie obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made, because every element of the invention has been collectively taught by the combined teachings of the references.
